REPORT OF THE SCHOOL BOARD OF DUBLIN, N. H.

FOR THE YEAR ENDING FEBRUARY 15, 1896.

In accordance with an act passed at the last session of the legislature requiring the School Board to file their annual report with the Selectmen on or before the first day of August instead of March, as heretofore, the Board complied, and also sent a copy of the same together with answers to the seventy-seven questions asked, to the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

As will be seen that report included only the first term of our schools and was consequently incomplete. While this change in the law may be favorable to the schools in some of the cities, it is entirely out of season for our country towns, as the time for making their annual report should be at the same time as their annual town settlement, and when the new member of the board is chosen. We hope the next session of the legislature will speedily right this matter.

Believing the townspeople will expect the printed report of the schools as usual, we present the following as the seventy-fourth annual report of the schools of Dublin.

The town appropriated at the annual meeting thirteen hundred dollars for the support of the schools. Twenty-five weeks of school have been held in each school-house, with three weeks in addition to this number in No. 5 to make up for time lost heretofore in that school. It has been our aim to give all the schools as nearly as possible equal advantages. Nothing has transpired to cause any disturbance, or to interrupt our schools the past year and they have run quite smoothly.

TEACHERS.

Seven different teachers have been employed during the year, Nos. 1, 4 and 5 having the same for both terms. All have been well qualified to perform the duties devolving upon them.

The large experience of three, enabled them to accomplish a great amount of excellent work, while others with less or no experience, entered upon their labors with a will that knows no such thing as fail, and their success was above the average. The object of our teachers seemed to be, not how easily they could earn their pay, but how much they could accomplish. Teachers should remember that what a scholar sees makes a deep impression, and that he can see outside of the school-house as well as in.

DISCIPLINE.

With one or two exceptions the order has been good, in some of the schools excellent. We regret that some of our scholars do not appreciate the mild and pleasant ways of a teacher and do not so conduct themselves that the school board will not feel obliged to employ teachers of a more severe type. In some cases the scholars are allowed to ask too many questions, prominent among which is to leave the room. While we believe the smaller children should not be too closely confined, with the older ones this is needless, as was well proved at the closing examination of the second term in No. 1, which lasted over three hours without intermission, during which time not one scholar asked to leave the room. The orderly and quiet manner in which the scholars have passed to and from their seats has been noticeable and reflects much credit on the scholars as well as teachers. Our school-rooms have presented a neat and clean appearance, and several of the janitors have been highly complimented by their teachers.

INTEREST.

We are glad to note an increased interest in our schools. In most of them the attendance has been good, there has not been any dropping off at the latter part of the term (which has often been the case) although the last term was of unusual length; this is as it should be. Our amount of schooling is small compared with that of larger towns, and if we are to keep apace we must improve every opportunity.

Scholars should never miss even one day unless absolutely necessary. The appeal that has been made from time to time to parents to visit the schools, has been quite well responded to in Nos. 2 and 3, where the men as well as the ladies were well represented, while in the other schools the visiting has been almost entirely confined to the ladies, only one father having visited the school in No. 1 during the year. We would again make an earnest request for parents and others to visit the schools; the scholars are entitled to your interest, the teacher to your respect, and the school board to your coöperation. As will be seen by the statistical table Nos. 1, 2 and 3 have nearly the same number of scholars, No. 5, although smaller than these, has increased since last year, while No. 4 (on account of the removal of one family and the dropping off of the older scholars) has become the smallest school in town. Probably there has not been a time for many years when our schools were so nearly on an equality in rank of scholarship as at the present, and it behooves each one to see that his school does not fall behind.

TEXT BOOKS AND STUDIES.

There seems to be an unavoidable delay in supplying the schools with text books at the beginning of the term, several days often elapse before all the classes are thoroughly organized. We see no remedy for this except by grading each school. This, of course, will require time and necessitate expense, but would, we believe, prove highly beneficial in the end. During the year Franklin's arithmetics (which have been in our schools since 1881) were changed for Milne's, which seems to meet with general favor.

The board feel themselves under obligations to exchange geographies, those now in use being out of date and behind the times. After much consideration we have decided to introduce Frye's, which we confidently hope will prove satisfactory. A large amount of written work has been done in the schools of which the copy books form but a small part, compositions and letter writing receiving a good share of attention, also the writing out of topics in history, and other studies. The use of the spelling blanks was continued; we think this the best method of teaching spelling, as we have but little occasion through life to spell orally. Map drawing has also received a good degree of attention. Some excellent work has been done in Colburn's mental arithmetic. Physiology has been taught as in previous years, and from the same text books, no recommendations of others having been received from the state superintendent. Language work, history, bookkeeping and other studies have been pursued with commendable progress. In some instances we noticed scholars were reading in books too hard for them, requiring too much assistance from the teacher. We have had several requests to loan books to scholars during vacation, but from previous experience have not thought it advisable to do so. We would recommend that each family own copies of such books as their children use; these can be purchased of the school board at cost.

SCHOOL HOUSES.

Only slight repairs have been made on the school houses the past year, and we think there will be no need of any special appropriation for that purpose at our annual meeting, the houses all being in quite good condition. It is with pleasure we notice the willingness of the scholars to make good any injury caused by them to the school buildings or furniture. We notice that several of the flags, ropes or staffs are out of order; we hope that the same patriotic spirit that provided these flags will see that they are all kept in repair, believing it is better that the scholars, assisted by the parents and others, should see to this matter, than that the school board should do it at the expense of the district.

MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES.

As required by law memorial exercises were held in all of our schools, and in some of them a goodly number of visitors were present. So far as we have been able to learn these exercises were well gotten up and appropriate to the purpose for which they were intended, and will, we hope, serve to impress on the children's minds the importance of this observance.

CONCLUSION.

While we believe our schools as a whole have been above the average, yet they have not been all they should be. There has been too much to distract the attention of the scholars from their school work. Thirty years ago a dancing school at the same time that the common schools were in session would not for one moment have been sanctioned. We do not wish it understood that we oppose dancing, but let it be a dance, dramatic, grange, or any other meeting, each or collectively, that keeps scholars out evening after evening, and attracts their attention from their studies, it can but prove detrimental to our schools, and parents must hold themselves largely responsible.
